Pending before the Court is Motion to Remand, (ECF No. 10), filed by Plaintiffs.¹ Defendants U.S. Home Corporation (“U.S. Home”) and Greystone Nevada, LLC (“Greystone”) (collectively “Defendants”) filed a Response, (ECF No. 14), and Plaintiffs filed a Reply, (ECF No. 18).

Also pending before the Court is Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss, (ECF No. 5). Plaintiff filed a Response, (ECF No. 11), and Defendant filed a Reply, (ECF No. 13). For the following reasons, the Motion to Remand is DENIED, and the Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

I. BACKGROUND

This case concerns a class action suit for claims arising out of alleged construction defects. Plaintiffs are a class of named and unnamed homeowners in the Sierra Ranch development in North Las Vegas. (Compl. ¶¶ 1–12, ECF No. 1-1). Defendants are the ¹ “Plaintiffs” are Brittany Lopez, Anthony Lopez, Paula Earl-McConico, Willie McConico, Martin Freeman, Veronica Freeman, Timmy Le, Nguyen Trinh, Gerda Pierrot, Shawn Ybarra, Shelby McEvoy, Kenneth Pfeifer, Pablo Echevarria, Patrease Ashley, Nicholas Spendrich, Maryann Undis, Shuren Zhang, Ping Yue, Robyn Cooper, Linda Yarbrough, Soon Lewis, Nicole Jenkins, Matthew Bachman, Timothy Thompson, Steve Feldman, Jennifer Durham, Jennier Houghland, Seth Mackert, Kristal Mackert, Lillie A. Banks, Nathan Reeder, Kylee Reeder, Derek Bao, Nicole Shinavar, Jerome A. Reyes, Paul E. Melendez, Scott Wortley, and Holly Wortley.

1 “developer, Nevada licensed general contractor, builder marketer and/or seller” of the 357
2 homes located in Sierra Ranch. (Id. ¶¶ 6–7).

3 On July 30, 2014, twelve Plaintiffs submitted to Defendants their first notice of common 4 defects pursuant to NRS Chapter 40 on behalf of themselves and all “similarly situated” 5 residences in the Sierra Ranch housing development. (Id. ¶ 17). Plaintiffs subsequently 6 forwarded two supplemental notices, adding an additional ten homes. (Id.). On June 9, 2016, 7 Defendants informed Plaintiffs of their election not to repair any of the alleged construction 8 defects and their waiver of NRS Chapter 40 mediation. (Id. ¶ 18).

9 On June 22, 2016, Plaintiffs filed their Complaint in state court, alleging the following 10 causes of action: (1) breach of implied warranties; (2) strict liability; (3) negligence and 11 negligence per se; (4) and declaratory and other equitable relief. (Id. ¶¶ 20–36). Defendants 12 removed this action, citing federal jurisdiction pursuant to the Class Action Fairness Act 13 (“CAFA”), 28 U.S.C. § 1332. (Pet. in Removal ¶ 1, ECF No. 1). In the instant motions, 14 Defendants’ seek to dismiss certain claims alleged by Plaintiffs, and Plaintiffs seek to remand 15 this case back to state court.

16 II. LEGAL STANDARD

17 A. Motion to Remand

18 Federal courts are of limited jurisdiction and possess only that jurisdiction which is 19 authorized by either the Constitution or federal statute. Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of 20 Am., 511 U.S. 375, 377 (1994). Pursuant to CAFA, a federal district court has jurisdiction over 21 “any civil action in which the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000, 22 exclusive of interest and costs, and is a class action in which any member of a class of plaintiffs 23 is a citizen of a State different from any defendant,” so long as the class has more than 100 24 members. 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2)(A), (d)(5)(B). Generally, courts “strictly construe the 25 removal statute against removal jurisdiction.” Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir.

1992). However, “no antiremoval presumption attends cases invoking CAFA, which Congress enacted to facilitate adjudication of certain class actions in federal court.” Dart Cherokee Basin Operating Co. v. Owens, 135 S. Ct. 547, 554 (2014). “CAFA’s provisions should be read broadly, with a strong preference that interstate class actions should be heard in a federal court if properly removed by any defendant.” Id. As noted above, to meet the diversity requirement under CAFA, a removing defendant must show “any member of a class of plaintiffs is a citizen of a State different from any defendant.” 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2)(A). “Thus, under CAFA, complete diversity is not required; ‘minimal diversity’ suffices.” Serrano v. 180 Connect, Inc., 478 F.3d 1018, 1021 (9th Cir. 2007).

10 B. Motion to Dismiss

11 Dismissal is appropriate under Rule 12(b)(6) where a pleader fails to state a claim upon 12 which relief can be granted. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 13 555 (2007). A pleading must give fair notice of a legally cognizable claim and the grounds on 14 which it rests, and although a court must take all factual allegations as true, legal conclusions 15 couched as a factual allegations are insufficient. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. Accordingly, Rule 16 12(b)(6) requires “more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements 17 of a cause of action will not do.” Id. “To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain 18 sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its 19 face.’” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570). “A 20 claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to 21 draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Id. This 22 standard “asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.” Id.

23 If the court grants a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, leave to amend should 24 be granted unless it is clear that the deficiencies of the complaint cannot be cured by 25 amendment. DeSoto v. Yellow Freight Sys., Inc., 957 F.2d 655, 658 (9th Cir. 1992). Pursuant to 1 Rule 15(a), the court should “freely” give leave to amend “when justice so requires,” and in the 2 absence of a reason such as “undue delay, bad faith or dilatory motive on the part of the 3 movant, repeated failure to cure deficiencies by amendments previously allowed, undue 4 prejudice to the opposing party by virtue of allowance of the amendment, futility of the 5 amendment, etc.” Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962).

6 III. DISCUSSION

7 A. Motion to Remand

8 Plaintiffs ask the Court to remand this case back to state court. Plaintiffs claim that 9 Defendants have failed to meet their burden to demonstrate the adequate numerosity and 10 amount in controversy requirements for federal jurisdiction under CAFA, and therefore, 11 removal was improper. (See Mot. to Remand, ECF No. 10). For the following reasons, the 12 Court finds that Defendants have met their burden of showing, by a preponderance of the 13 evidence, that the jurisdictional requirements of CAFA are met in this case, and thus, remand is 14 inappropriate.

15 1. Numerosity

16 First, Plaintiffs argue that the class before the court does not contain the adequate 17 number of plaintiffs to be removed under CAFA. (Reply 6:9–14, ECF No. 18). To establish 18 numerosity, the proposed class need only logically meet the minimum number of plaintiffs.
19 Kuxhausen v. BMW Financial Servs. NA, LLC, 707 F.3d 1136, 1140 (9th Cir. 2013). Class 20 actions may include named and unnamed parties. Mississippi ex rel. Hood v. AU 21 Optronics Corp., 134 S. Ct. 736, 742 (2014).

22 Plaintiffs purport to represent a class of “all persons and entities presently owning an 23 interest in one or more [of the 357] residential living units constructed upon a designated Lot in 24 the single Sierra Ranch development.” (Compl. ¶ 3, ECF No. 1-1). Even accounting for the 40 25

1 homes represented in a separate case against Defendants, the class logically exceeds 100 2 plaintiffs. As such, the putative class exceeds the numerosity threshold of CAFA.

3 2. Amount in Controversy

4 Turning to CAFA's amount in controversy requirement, a removing defendant must 5 plausibly assert that the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000,000. See Ibarra v. Manheim
6 Investments, Inc., 775 F.3d 1193, 1197 (9th Cir. 2015). This requires only a "short and plain 7 statement" of the grounds for removal. 28 U.S.C. 1446; Dart, 135 S. Ct. at 553–54. But where 8 "the plaintiff contests, or the court questions, the defendant's allegation" in its notice of 9 removal, further evidence establishing that the amount in controversy meets the jurisdictional 10 minimum is required. Dart, 135 S. Ct. at 554. Although no presumption against removal exists, 11 the Court must determine, "by a preponderance of the evidence, whether the amount-in-12 controversy requirement has been satisfied." Id. "The parties may submit evidence outside the 13 complaint, including affidavits or declarations, or other summary-judgment-type evidence 14 relevant to the amount in controversy at the time of removal." Ibarra, 775 F.3d at 1198. Where 15 a defendant relies on a chain of reasoning and assumptions to establish the amount in 16 controversy, both must be reasonable. LaCross v. Knight Transp. Inc., 775 F.3d 1200, 1202 17 (9th Cir. 2015).

18 In their Motion for Remand, Plaintiffs contend that Defendants failed to meet their 19 burden to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that it is more likely than not that the 20 amount in controversy exceeds the CAFA jurisdictional amount. (Mot. to Remand 7: 9–8:11).
21 In particular, Plaintiffs argue that the Complaint does not facially request a sum over 22 $5,000,000. (Id.). Plaintiffs assert that "Defendants misread Plaintiffs' prayer for damage or 23 speculate, at best, the amount of damages sought by Plaintiffs." (Id. 8:2–4). In support of their 24 calculation of the amount in controversy, Defendants submit a cost of repair report ("Medina 25 Report") prepared by an expert in a separate construction defect case currently pending in state

1 court, Medina v. U.S. Home Corp., No. A-12-668394-D (Dist. Court Clark County filed Aug. 7, 2 2013). (Resp. 8:11–13, ECF No. 14). As in this case, the homes included in the Medina Report
3 were built and sold by U.S. Home and are interspersed throughout the Sierra Ranch housing 4 development. (See Ex. 1 to Odia Decl. (“Medina Compl.”), ECF No. 14-7).

5 Plaintiffs in both cases allege substantially similar defects; in the Medina complaint, for 6 example, the plaintiffs allege that the forty properties at issue have “defectively built roofs, 7 leaking windows, dirt coming through windows, drywall cracking, stucco cracking, stucco 8 staining, water and insect intrusion through foundation slabs, and other poor workmanship.” 9 (Medina Compl. ¶ 9). Likewise, Plaintiffs here allege that their homes have “improperly 10 designed or constructed . . . slabs, . . . foundations, exterior masonry site retaining/fence walls, 11 drainage and drainage systems[,] . . . roof and roofing systems, windows and window systems, 12 stucco and stucco weatherproofing systems.” (Compl. ¶ 13).

13 In light of these substantial similarities, the Court finds that the Medina Report suffices 14 as a reasonable approximation of Plaintiffs’ damages.² Of the forty homes in the Medina 15 Report, none had an estimated repair cost attributed to construction defects below $41,034.84.
16 (See Medina Report, ECF No. 14-10). Multiplying this figure by the purported 317 class 17 members, discussed supra, yields a total of $13,008,044.28, well above the jurisdictional 18 amount. Federal jurisdiction under CAFA is therefore proper, and the Motion to Remand is 19 denied.

24 ² Plaintiffs argue that the Medina Report cannot aid in establishing the amount in controversy because it was 25 prepared in the course of separate litigation and the Court has no way to evaluate the origin of the damages in the Medina Report or whether they are comparable. (Resp. 7:25–8:4). Because of the similar underlying defects, the fact that the Medina Report was prepared for separate litigation does not undermine its validity.

1 B. Motion to Dismiss

2 In the instant Motion to Dismiss, Defendants seek to dismiss as time-barred certain 3 Plaintiffs' claims arising from alleged construction defects and breach of statutory implied 4 warranties. In addition, the Motion seeks to dismiss Plaintiffs' strict liability claim. The Court 5 considers these three arguments in turn.

6 1. Claims Arising from Construction Defects

7 Defendants argue that the six-year statute of limitations imposed by NRS § 11.202, as 8 amended by Assembly Bill ("AB") 125, forecloses the construction defect claims of seventeen 9 sets of named Plaintiffs³ whose homes were built in 2006 and 2007.⁴ (MTD 5:22–6:19, ECF 10 No. 5). Pursuant to NRS § 11.202 as amended in 2015,

11 1. No action may be commenced against the owner, occupier or any 12 person performing or furnishing the design, planning, supervision or 13 observation of construction, or the construction of an improvement 14 to real property more than 6 years after the substantial completion of 15 such an improvement, for the recovery of damages for:

16 (a) Any deficiency in the design, planning, supervision or 17 observation of construction or the construction of such an 18 improvement[.]

19 NRS § 11.202(1)(a). The Nevada legislature provided that this version of NRS § 11.202 20 "applies retroactively to actions in which the substantial completion of the improvement to the 21 real property occurred before the effective date [February 24, 2015] of this act" and 22 incorporated a one-year grace period to commence an action. 2015 Nev. Stat. Ch. 2 § 21(5), (6)

23 ³ These seventeen sets of Plaintiffs are: Paul E. and Anna G. Melendez; Nicholas P. Speldrich and Maryann 24 Undis; Nathan and Kylee E. Reeder; Derek H. Bao and Nicole W. Shinavar; Pablo Echevarria and Patrease L.
25 Ashley; Jennifer Durham; Seth M. and Kristal A. Mackert; Jennifer Houghland; Scott B. and Holly Wortley; 26 Robyn Cooper; Linda Yarbrough; Shuren and Ping Yue Zhang; Timmy and Trinh Nguyen Le; Gerda Pierrot; 27 Martin and Veronica P. Freeman; Steve Feldman; Shawn Ybarra. (MTD 8:1–16).

28 ⁴ Prior to its amendment in 2015, NRS § 11.202 imposed six, eight, and ten-year statutes of limitations. See NRS 29 § 11.202 (1983).

1 (“AB 125”). Based on AB 125, Defendants assert that these Plaintiffs’ claims expired when 2 Plaintiffs failed to “commence an action” before expiration of the grace period on February 24, 3 2016. (MTD 6:10–19).

4 Defendants’ argument, however, fails to account for the tolling provision articulated in 5 NRS § 40.695. The operative version of NRS § 40.695 states that “statutes of limitation or 6 repose applicable to a claim based on a constructional defect governed by NRS 40.600 to 7 40.695 . . . are tolled from the time notice of the claim is given, until 30 days after mediation is 8 concluded or waived in writing.”⁵ NRS § 40.695 (2003). This tolling provision “[p]revail[s] 9 over any conflicting law otherwise applicable to the claim or cause of action.” NRS § 40.635.
10 Accordingly, the tolling provision in NRS § 40.695 takes precedence over the statute of 11 limitations articulated in NRS § 11.202. Indeed, NRS Chapter 11 reinforces this conclusion: 12 “Civil actions can only be commenced within the periods prescribed in this chapter, after the 13 cause of action shall have accrued, except where a different limitation is prescribed by statute.” 14 NRS § 11.010 (emphasis added).

15 Plaintiffs’ construction defect claims were therefore tolled from July 30, 2014, the date 16 of the first NRS Chapter 40 Notice, to July 9, 2016, thirty days after Defendants waived 17 mediation. See NRS § 40.695 (tolling “statutes of limitation . . . applicable to a claim based on 18 a constructional defect . . . from the time notice of the claim is given, until 30 days after 19 mediation is concluded or waived in writing”). Plaintiffs filed the instant Complaint in state 20 court within the tolling period on June 22, 2016. (See Compl.). Consequently, Plaintiffs timely 21 filed their construction defect claims, and Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss is DENIED as to 22 these claims.

24
25 ⁵ Although NRS § 40.695 was amended in 2013, both parties cite this statute as it read prior to amendment. (See Resp. 6:26–7:5, ECF No. 11); (Reply 8:26–9:2, ECF No. 13).

1 2. Breach of Implied Warranties Pursuant to NRS § 116.4114

2 Defendants argue that Plaintiffs’ breach of implied warranties claim pursuant to NRS
3 § 116.4114 is time barred for the seventeen sets of Plaintiffs discussed supra. (See MTD 10:10– 4 11:7). Plaintiffs concede this point. (Resp. 19:15–20:3, ECF No. 11). Accordingly, the Court 5 GRANTS Defendants’ Motion and, to the extent Plaintiffs allege a claim for breach of implied
6 warranties pursuant to NRS § 116.4114, this claim is DISMISSED with prejudice with respect 7 to these Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs’ breach of common law implied warranties claim survives as 8 asserted by all Plaintiffs.

9 3. Strict Liability

10 Next, Defendants argue that a strict liability claim based upon alleged defects in homes 11 or components is not viable under Nevada law. The Complaint alleges strict liability against 12 Defendants on the basis that the homes “have been defective . . . , including but not limited to 13 the installation of defective products.” (Compl. ¶ 32). In their Response, Plaintiffs clarify that 14 the Complaint asserts strict liability under “the legal theory for design and manufacturing 15 defects of a product itself (i.e. plumbing systems, windows and sliding glass doors).” (Resp.
16 10:27–19:2).

17 However, the Supreme Court of Nevada has ruled that a building itself is not a “product” 18 for the purposes of strict liability in Nevada. See Calloway v. City of Reno, 993 P.2d 1259, 19 1272 (Nev. 2000). The Supreme Court of Nevada explained:

20 [O]ne is strictly liable for damages from a dangerously defective 21 product only if one is a seller “engaged in the business of selling such 22 a product.” See Restatement (Second) of Torts § 402A (1965).
23 Although a contractor may, as part of a construction or remodeling 24 project, install certain products, a contractor, without doing more, is 25 not engaged in the business of “manufacturing” or selling such products and therefore does not come within the ambit of section 402A.

Id.

1 Although Calloway has been overruled in light of Chapter 40 to the extent it held that a 2 negligence claim is not viable in a construction defect case, see Olson v. Richard, 89 P.3d 31, 3 33 (Nev. 2004), Calloway's holding that strict liability is not available for damage to property
4 from a defective component has not been overruled. The Court therefore GRANTS
5 Defendants' Motion with regard to this claim and DISMISSES Plaintiffs' strict liability claim 6 with prejudice.

7 IV. CONCLUSION

8 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion to Remand, (ECF No. 10), is 9 DENIED.

10 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Defendants' Motion to Dismiss, (ECF No. 5), is 11 GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.
